The symbol of the Red Cross carries its protective message to every American home. Children, through the Junior Red Cross with motto "We Serve", work for less fortunate youths. Through its war service, thousands of veter-

Compton Farmer Fatally Hurt in Hunting Accident

Eldo Johnson, 24-year-old farmer of north of Compton, was the victim of a fatal hunting accident Saturday north of Ironwood, Mich., where a party of Paw Paw and Compton hunters had gone into camp to hunt deer. According to the information received at Compton, the young man's rifle accidentally discharged near the camp Friday evening and shortly after, he stumbled into the cabin and died about two hours later.

His brother, Gerald Johnson, 39, Elido Johnson, who also operates a farm near Compton, Dr. C. S. Flemming, Harry Town and Victor Winterton of Paw Paw, left early last week to hunt deer at a camp about 16 miles north of Ironwood, Mich., and reports are to the effect that the victim of the tragic accident was alone when he is believed to have stumbled and the rifle he was carrying discharged the bullet striking him in the chest.

The body arrived at Compton Sunday afternoon and funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon. A service will be conducted at the home at 1 o'clock and at 2 o'clock at the Paw Paw Methodist church.

STABBING FRAY CLEARED UP BY CHIEF'S PROBE

Kansas City Man Held in County Jail Here on Serious Charge

Frank Mustain, 39, also known as "Kansas City Curley", pipe line worker of Kansas City, is a prisoner in the Lee county jail, charged with assault with a deadly weapon upon James Conn, a Texas pipe line worker, Saturday morning. Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber, who conducted the investigation after Conn was admitted to the hospital with a stab wound in the back Saturday morning, filed the charge against Mustain, who was apprehended late Saturday afternoon.

Ray Reynolds, a pipe line welder, was also taken in custody at the same time that Mustain was apprehended, but was later released from custody. Chief Van Bibber stated today that Conn had admitted Mustain had stabbed him at about 8 o'clock Saturday morning in room 10 at the Dewey hotel where a poker game had been in progress the greater part of the night.

Chief Locates Room
Chief Van Bibber located the scene of the stabbing at noon Saturday and inspected the room where blood was spattered about on the walls and bed and on the stairs down which Conn was said to have been thrown. Conn was resting comfortably today at the Dixon public hospital. A point of the knife blade with which he was stabbed between the shoulders is embedded in a rib, it was reported today.

A quarrel over a jack pot in a poker game was said to have provoked hot words, then blows, and finally other weapons were used. Mustain, previously to Conn's admittance to the hospital Saturday morning, had several stitches taken in a scalp gash which was reported to have been caused by a blow from an empty beer bottle.

Germans Frightened by U. S. Destroyers Says Mexican Gunboat Chief

Mexico City, Nov. 18.—(AP)—A Mexican gunboat captain has reported officially, said dispatches today from Tampico, that United States neutrality patrol vessels, and not "enemy" warships, caused a German merchant captain to scuttle his ship and frightened three other Nazi vessels back into Tampico harbor Friday night.

The Mexican naval officer, Lieut. Cuauhtemoc Perez Zavala, was said also to have advised the Mexican navy that one of the United States ships—all destroyers—had entered Mexican territorial waters.

Participants in Canton Fight End in Hospital

Canton, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A quarrel over a card game in Havana, Ill., last night ended in a fight and today both participants were in a hospital here suffering from gun and knife wounds.

Leroy Hampton, 50, and Joseph Rosselli, 36, both of Havana, quarreled in front of a tavern. Hampton today was in a serious condition with knife wounds in the chest and abdomen. Rosselli had bullet wounds in the chest and groin.

Like Father, Etc.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 18.—A new version of "like father, like son" cropped up in domestic court when a 21-year-old bride of four months charged her spouse with threats and non-support.

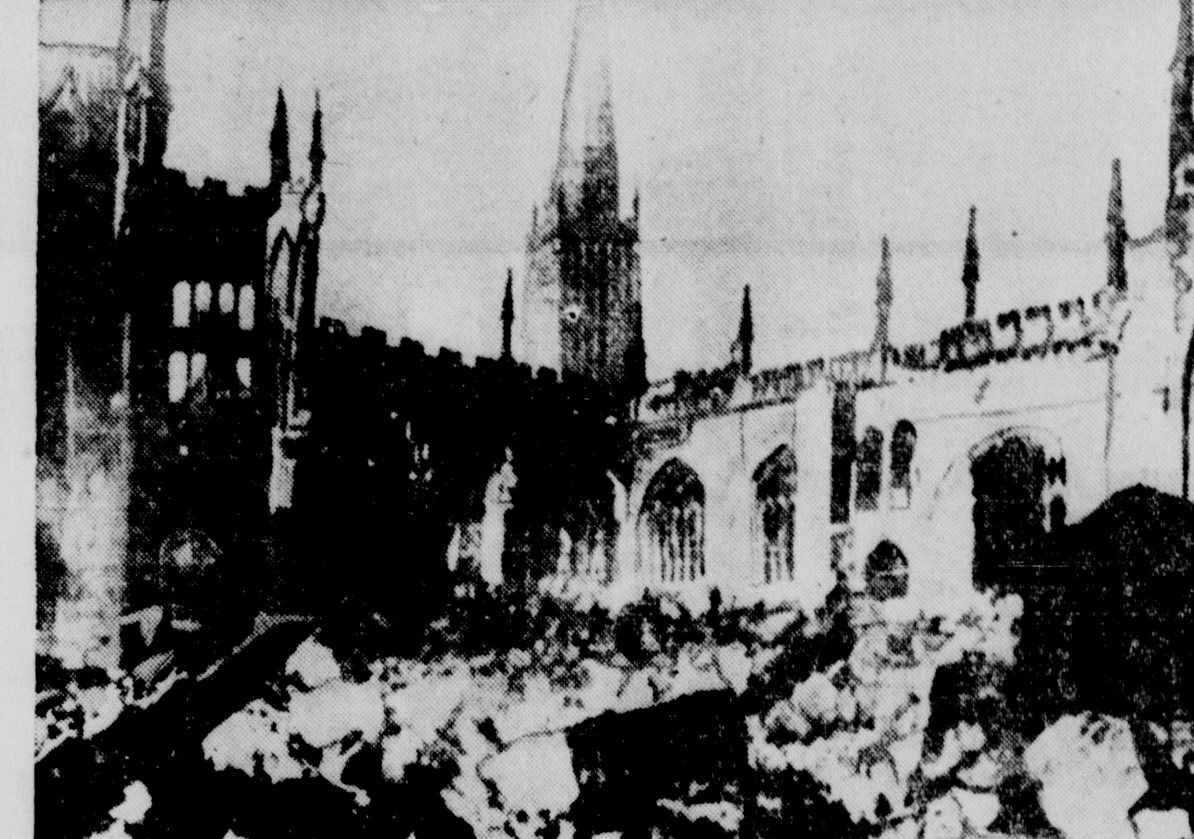

"When I insisted he take a bath," she testified, "he told me that his father only took a bath every six months and what was good enough for his father was good enough for him."

He said this country should "give all practicable aid to Great Britain and to those aligned with her in her fight", adding that "this does not mean that we send troops to Europe."

"It is our duty as citizens of America to face facts as they actually are and not as we would like to have them", he declared.

"With that, at all times, goes the keen desire and determination to avoid war if possible, but in any event to preserve our own American form of government and its basic concepts."

Nazi Raiders Leave Cathedral in Smoking Ruins

Described by English censor as "a Coventry cathedral," this jumble of smoking ruins is believed to be all that remained of famed five century old cathedral of St. Michael in Coventry, England, after pounding by Nazi warplanes.

Champaign Police Without Clues in Divorcee's Murder

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Police were without any definite clues today to the slaying of Mary Catherine Elliott, 23-year-old Decatur divorcee, whose body, the skull crushed, was found Saturday night in a hedge in the north residential district.

Officers found the body after an anonymous telephone caller notified police a girl was "lying in the bushes." Police Chief Clyde Davis said that the attractive Miss Elliott, a salesgirl in a local dress shop, had been killed with a brick and assaulted criminally. A blood-stained brick was found about 60 feet from the body.

Also near her body, which was clad in a fur coat, police found her shoes and clothing. Her underclothing had been torn. Miss Elliott, who had been working here for about five weeks, had been seen about 10 p. m. Saturday in a downtown drug store, Florence Legue, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Legue, with whom Miss Elliott resided, said she had told her she was to meet a young man who had promised to drive her to Decatur.

Appointment Broken

He failed to keep the appointment, however, Miss Legue said, and Miss Elliott left the drug store for the Legue home and planned to go to her home in Decatur later Saturday night.

Police believe the attack occurred while Miss Elliott was en route to the Legue home. Her death resulted from "multiple skull fractures, apparently inflicted by a blunt instrument," said Dr. John Siegling of Urbana and J. R. Ingram of Champaign, who performed an autopsy.

Before coming here, Miss Elliott lived with her mother and her stepfather, R. J. Sickasus, in Decatur. Police said they had learned that Miss Elliott was divorced about a year ago from Charles "Bud" Fitch of Peoria.

John Lewis Keeps Pledge to Resign as Chief of CIO

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Taking up the gavel for the last time as C. I. O. president, John L. Lewis, with tears in his eyes, told C. I. O.'s convention delegates today that he was stepping down as their leader, and urged them to unite their ranks and support whoever they name as his successor.

To a hushed throng which a few minutes earlier had given him a thunderous ovation, Lewis said: "I won't be with you long. I have done my work and in a few days I'll be out of this office."

It was his keynote speech, serious and emotional in tempo and carrying in it an urgent plea to the C. I. O. to remain united or it would "not long endure."

Lewis' term as president expires at the close of the convention. It is expected that Philip Murray will be named as his successor. In giving notice that he was about to get out of the C. I. O. leadership, Lewis fulfilled the promise he made to retire if President Roosevelt were re-elected for a third term.

Lewis called on C. I. O. unions for unity among themselves and confidence in their leadership. On the labor front, he said, C. I. O. had demonstrated its strength and piled up a record of accomplishments.

"It can go forward," he said. "But if you consume your time in criticism and vituperation, you won't have an organization long."

The big, broad-shouldered Lewis told the delegates that C. I. O. needed the strength of a confident following.

The name of Johnson—a top-flight surname in many middle-west schools—ranks second at Illinois, with 94 students and 18 staffers. Third in number were the Millers, with 68 students and six staffers. Then followed the Browns with 52 and 10; Andersons, 50 and 13; Jones, 40 and 13; Taylors, 36 and 5; and Thompsons, 36 students.

Chemical Plant Has Third Blast in Week; Bomb Factory Fuel of Flames

Pittsburgh, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The third mysterious explosion within a week in a plant of the American Cyanamid & Chemical Corporation baffled investigators today while a bomb factory owner charged sabotage in the destruction of his concern by fire.

Italians Driven Back Into Albanian Sector: Greeks Counter Attack

The War Today!

(This daily feature, conducted by De Witt MacKenzie, is being written by Fred Vanderschmidt while MacKenzie is taking a brief vacation.)

Mussolini's speech is interesting and important for two reasons. (1) Why he made it at all; (2) what he didn't say. (See story on page 9).

This was the first time Il Duce had chosen to break his sphinx-like silence since he threw in his lot with the Germans for better or worse last June 10 and joined in the assault against France and Britain. Why did he find it necessary to speak out now to tell his people that his high command had been telling the truth about the damage which British aerial torpedoes did to Italy's battleships at Taranto? Or to declare, "whatever happens, I will never turn back" in Greece?

The logical answer is that Italians have been cupping a defeatist ear to the British radio and then asking each other: "What are we getting out of this war but trouble? Where are our victories? Why did we get into it, anyway?" Mussolini, himself, referred to the "English loud speaker" and he took pains to give his people these answers to their unspoken questions: That only a few of their fathers, sons and brothers are dying in the cruel mountains of the Greek frontier; that only one battleship was badly damaged at Taranto; that no lightning triumph must be expected to rise from the mud and crags of Epirus and the Pinus. That Britain started the whole thing by really "attacking" Italy five years ago; that the Greeks hated Italy and conspired with Britain to beat her.

What Mussolini did not say was how he and Adolf Hitler proposed to get Italy out of the slump she is in. Il Duce did, it is true, promise to start his troops on the march again in the western Egyptian desert, on the way toward Suez, but it is clear now that a resumption of this offensive depends upon fracture of British sea power in the Mediterranean and easement of the difficult Italian situation on the Greek-Albanian border.

That is being dealt with today at Berchtesgaden, front yard of Adolf Hitler's eyrie, and it is one of the best bets you can make today that the men of Germany, Italy and Spain are talking about the prospects or even laying the final plans for a German assault, by way of Spain, on Britain's Gibraltar—on which Britain's Mediterranean sea power largely rests.

They may also be planning a simultaneous German drive down through Bulgaria to outflank and crush the Greeks, but here again another omission of Mussolini's must be taken into account.

Il Duce did not say whether he would have any German troops to help him in the Greek campaign. Instead, he reiterated rather vaguely that German and Italian collaboration is "comradely and totalitarian"; that he and Hitler think exactly alike.

There is pretty fair evidence that Germany would like to avoid embroiling Turkey right now, and a German march through Bulgaria would risk that. So it is possible that German aid to Italy at this time will take the form of an attempt to crack Britain's naval hold on the Mediterranean.

What chance there is of Gibraltar holding out against modern forms of attack by land is an entirely unknown quantity. There have been extensive defense works on the low-lying isthmus which connects the classic pillars of Hercules to the Spanish mainland, but they have had no test.

Probably both Spain and Italy will play passive parts in this assault if it comes. Spain would provide the hospitable road to Gibraltar for the German divisions marching south from the Pyrenees. If Africa, Spain's troops in Morocco and Italy's in Libya will stand close guard on the undefeated and unweakened French army of North Africa.

This French army, under General Maxime Weygand, still is a mysterious factor in the Mediterranean struggle. Obviously it does

Greek Forces Reported at Very Gates of Koritza

(By The Associated Press)

Premier Mussolini swore today that "Whatever happens, I will never turn back" in the Greek campaign; and even as he spoke his fascist invasion army was reported falling back to a new defense line 25 miles inside the Albanian frontier.

After three weeks of warfare, it appeared, the Italians are now preparing to resist a Greek counter-invasion. Dispatches from Athens said that Mussolini's legions were retreating from the key city of Koritza, 10 miles inside Albania, and that a motorized column of 150 Italian tanks was cut off on a mountain road.

A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Djedjelija, near the Greek-Yugoslav frontier, later said 600 Italian troops and 150 tanks crossed the border from Greece and surrendered to Yugoslav authorities last night.

Greek troops had reached the gates of Koritza, it was said, with the Italians fighting a desperate rear-guard action to cover the withdrawal from the fortified city—which was to have been used as a springboard for a drive to the port of Salonika, in eastern Greece.

Other Greek troops reported successes all along the 100-mile front and declared that nearly all the fighting now was on Albanian soil.

Mussolini's statement that he would "never turn back" was coupled with an assertion that the European war now could be concluded only "with the destruction of the modern Carthage—England."

Denies British Claims

Il Duce denied British claims that half of Italy's battleships were smashed last week in a raid on Taranto naval base, asserting that only one warship was damaged so badly it could not be repaired in a short time.

The fascist chieftain also warned his leaders that Italy must be prepared for "more severe" sacrifices, adding: "We have a million men under arms and we could call eight million more."

He spoke on the fifth anniversary of the day 51 nations applied economic sanctions against Italy for her invasion of Ethiopia. Indications of new axis plans came meanwhile from Berchtesgaden, near Adolf Hitler's Bavarian mountain retreat, as the Nazi Fuehrer arranged to meet with Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and Spanish Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner.

Plan "Squeeze Play"

Diplomatic circles in Bern, Switzerland, often an accurate sounding-board, heard that the conferees would discuss axis plans for a gigantic "squeeze play" on the Mediterranean through Gibraltar and Greece.

These sources envisaged a double-barreled assault through Spain against Gibraltar, which guards the west end of the Mediterranean, and through Bulgaria to outflank and crush the Greeks.

A five-car party of German official photo and press experts—reputedly the same group which filmed and reported the Nazi blitzkrieg through the low countries and France last spring—was reported to have arrived at La Linea, near Gibraltar, ready for developments.

RAF Command Changes

Amid routine Nazi air-raids, London's air ministry last night announced a change in the Royal Air Force command, releasing Air Chief Marshal Sir Hugh Dowding, head of the fighter command, for "special duty" in the United States at the specific request of Lord Beaverbrook, minister of aircraft production.

Air Marshal W. S. Douglas will succeed Dowding. Resisting British army pressure through the years for control of the R. A. F., the air ministry decided to allot several R. A. F. units under Air Marshal Sir Arthur Sheridan Barratt, for direct collaboration with Britain's ground forces. Barratt commanded British air forces in France until the French collapse, and his force will be known as the "army cooperation command."

In their counter-offensive, the R. A. F. reported that a second successive all-night raid on Hamburg Saturday night and Sunday morning left a path of destruction.

A CANDID ANSWER

Here's Why:

IT'S CLEAN . . .

Surface burners are new and efficient. New oven burners and vents keep the heat in the oven, and the range itself cleans up easily as a china dish!

IT'S ECONOMICAL . . .

New, heavier insulation saves more gas . . . New burners give more heat with less gas. Temperatures are controlled automatically.

IT'S FAST . . .

New speed gives more leisure time away from the kitchen. Scientific burner trays direct all the heat to the utensils.

IT'S HEALTHFUL . . .

Vegetables and meats cook in their own moisture, the waterless way, on a new gas range!

IT'S MODERN . . .

A new gas range is a source of pride to the family who wants their home up-to-date.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests." From the Farewell Address.

Propaganda, Pressure and Persuasion

Are you on a committee?
If you aren't, you're an unusual American these days.

For there are so many committees operating in the United States at the moment that it seems as though every person in the country must be a member of one or more. Committees, that is, trying to persuade the American people to do this or that in regard to the country's policies toward other nations.

Most of them are putting out propaganda. Don't recoil. We got so gun shy of that word during the World War that it still has a disreputable odor to us.

Propaganda, the source and purpose of which is known and open, is not propaganda in the disreputable sense the word has acquired. The arguments by both the National Democratic and Republican Committees during the presidential campaign were propaganda in the literal sense of the word. But their source and purpose was known to everyone, and their regularly-issued material was not propaganda in the evil sense.

So with the deluge of material that is being issued on foreign policy. Much of it comes frankly from known groups who frankly advocate a certain course. It is propaganda in the sense that it aims at conviction leading to action, but it is not propaganda in the sinister sense.

Here is a committee to "Defend America by Defending the Allies." With 700 local branches and scores of thousands of members this group begins to exercise real power in molding public opinion.

Here is a committee "For Non-Participation in Japanese Aggression."

Here is an "American First Committee," directly opposed to the first group named.

Here are committees to aid the Chinese, the Japanese, the French, the Poles, Scandinavian, and the people of almost every nationality of stricken Europe. Nearly all these committees are organized and run by native American citizens. They constitute a problem quite different from that which was attacked in forcing agents of foreign governments to register.

Yet they exercise their influence (and some are now becoming large enough to be real pressure groups) on our relations with other countries.

Democratic policies ought to be determined after hearing all the arguments. These groups are advancing the arguments on the basis of which we will decide. But it is likely that never before has so great a galaxy of pressure groups, committees and groups clamored for the American ear.

That ear wants to be more delicately tuned than ever before.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, Nov. 18.—The first split—a deep one—developed at the top of the National Defense Commission around election time, but they rushed at it with a needle and thread so fast the news did not get out, and you cannot discern today where the tear was.

It was the first occasion upon which the business men, Messrs. Stettinius and Knudsen, took a determined stand against the plans of what may be roughly called the New Deal commissioners, Chester Davis, Leon Henderson, Harriet Elliott and Sidney Hillman. (Commissioner Budd was absent.) The business men resisted and voted against a program for construction of a $4,500,000 government ammonia process plant for nitrates in the TVA at Muscle Shoals. The argument was bitter.

Their view as reported authentically by some who participated in the discussion, was that two ammonia plants are already being constructed by private enterprise, one by Allied Chemical and Dye and one by the DuPonts. These are to be used in the manufacture of nitrates necessary for munitions.

The war department had said it needed only two or three plants. Its first report favored three, but its last position indicated two would be sufficient. Stettinius and Knudsen thought so too. But the Farm Commissioner, Chester Davis, led a movement for government construction and operation of a third plant in expansion of the old abandoned Muscle Shoals nitrate plant, believing a new ammonia process could be used for manufacturing cheap fertilizer after the war necessity had passed.

Now no columnar observer would care to referee this one. The last experiment with ammonia processing for nitrate fertilizers at Muscle Shoals was hardly an howling success. The machinery was finally heavily greased against attacks of age and abandoned. The New Deal group nevertheless apparently feared this government invasion of the field of private manufacturing and considered the plant unnecessary.

When the New Dealers won, the business men—in accordance with a custom more prevalent in national political conventions than in government commissions—withdrawed their opposition votes and made the nomination, or rather the experiment, unanimous. The bitterness of the argument was agreeably forgotten.

No one fell dead in the state department over news of the Hitler-Molotov confab. Perhaps the Nazi and the Red did remake the Far Eastern world as advertised, but authorities will await some more substantial evidence of the results before believing it.

These world-shaking conferences of der fuhrer are shaking the world less and less. In fact the promised effect of the last Hitler-Mussolini meeting in Florence is still being awaited.

An unshakable suspicion exists that Hitler has developed a cunning new strategy to shake noisily the typewriters of the world rather than the world itself, with these conferences to cover up the sharp turns of the war against him. The whispering with Mussolini at Florence took place when the world became aware that his plan for invasion of England had failed. The Molotov blazings were staged on top of the rebuff of the first Italian attack upon Greece.

CHEESE STATE

Cheddar cheese, named for Cheddar, England, today is produced in such quantities in Wisconsin that the state produces more than the whole of Great Britain.

Supreme Court's Decisions Largely in Favor of Labor

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Supreme court refused today to enjoin an American Federation of Labor affiliate from picketing Chicago, Ill., stores selling milk produced in another state.

Justice Black delivered the opinion holding that an injunction could not be granted because the controversy involved a labor dispute. The opinion said that the federal Norris-LaGuardia act limited the granting of an injunction in labor controversies.

No dissent was announced. Violation by the labor union of the Sherman anti-trust act, prohibiting conspiracies which restrain interstate commerce, had been alleged, but Black held that the federal courts did not have jurisdiction "merely because alleged violations of the Sherman act are involved."

An injunction to restrain picketing by a local of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union was sought by Lake Valley Farm Products, Inc., a dairy which sold milk to vendors who in turn sold to the stores affected.

The union said the litigation involved an "economic dispute" over whether the Lake Valley Company should sign a "union contract." The Lake Valley Company, whose milk came from Wisconsin, said it sought relief from acts "preventing the sale of cut-rate milk" in Chicago.

Refuses Consideration
The court refused today to pass on the government's contention that the right of free speech "does not comprehend the right to engage in unfair labor practices."

The tribunal declined to review a labor board order holding that the Elkland Leather Company, Inc., of Elkland, Pa., had committed an unfair labor practice by giving its employees, along with their pay checks, a written statement announcing an open-shop policy. Refusal to review left the order in effect.

Also, the tribunal declined to review a decision holding that the labor board may certify as a collective bargaining agency a labor organization which received a majority of the votes cast in an election, even though less than a majority of those eligible to vote had participated.

This order, upheld by the Seventh Federal Circuit court, involved specifically the New York Handkerchief Manufacturing Company of Chicago.

In another unanimous opinion, the court ruled that a company which exported products on which it had paid processing and floor stock taxes under the agricultural adjustment act was not entitled to recover from the government its cost of claims suit.

Justice Murphy delivered the decision, applying to Wilson & Co., Inc., Chicago meat packers.

SERIAL STORY

DUDE COLLEGE

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I.

MR. THOMAS U. BAILEY awoke at dawn. To his astonishment he had slept soundly, and to his further astonishment he felt good. He sat on the edge of the bed, shivered, even though it was only September 4, then reached for his robe and walked out onto the broad veranda.

He leaned his hand against a log post and inhaled deeply. Next he patted what should have been his manly chest and said a long "ah-h-h-h!" Then — and this would have been news in New York — Mr. Thomas U. Bailey actually smiled.

"Is good morning, Senor Bailey, eh?"

A friendly Mexican said that, a cook in the ranch house here who had come out to probe the new boss.

"Wonderful, Fabian! Just look there!" Mr. Bailey pointed and said "ah-h-h-h-h" again.

"There" was a 90-mile expanse of that western entity known as room-enough. Specifically, it began here in New Mexico, but the panorama of it swept from a hazy eastern point that was Texas, across the Line into Chihuahua, and on around into the bold blue-red west that was Arizona. It was all a magnificent palette of colors mostly in sunrise pastels now, broken only by the distant sleeping mountains and the more alert Spanish daggers growing nearer at hand. It was all a landscape to make any man say ah-h-h-h-h!

"You have estomach for the many wheat cake and sausage again this morning, eh? You have good digest now."

"Fabian, my good man, I could eat a fried horse this morning! Indigestion? Pouff!" Pot-bellied Mr. Thomas U. Bailey snapped his fingers in disdain. "Why does a man stay in a city and ruin his health? Why didn't I buy a ranch 10 years ago, Fabian? Or 20 years ago? What if I did make a fortune manufacturing airplanes? No New York penthouse has this view or this altitude or this exhilarating crispness in the air."

"Fabian, I'm uprooting myself from the east. I'm going to bring Miss Ronnie out here at once—do her good—do her good—all that artificial hoity-toity bustle and—"

"See here Fabian, I want coffee this morning, too. I haven't had coffee in years. And have a horse saddled for me at once. I'm going to try that riding business again this morning and—well, get going Fabian, get going!"

"Si!" Fabian grinned and departed. "Si, senor. Es muy bueno!" It was, indeed, very good, to see the renowned capitalist Thomas U. Bailey acting like a human being again, he who had come west as a touchy invalid.

It was 2 a. m. before the telegraph company could locate Miss Ronnie Bailey.

The telegram, phoned first to Cloudtop ranger station thence via the Lazy Y 4 and the Cross S ranches into Pueblo, New Mexico, got into New York City about noon. But Miss Bailey, her maid reported, was up at 11 and off to fly her new plane down to Camden to see a friend. Camden reported her on the way back home suggested they try Andre Girardeau's apartment, because Monsieur Girardeau had flown with her.

Andre's man said they were to

"It's from Dad," Ronnie said. "He wants me to come west, to go to school. I'll have to do as he says."

dine on the river boat Sparling off West Point, but the boat skipper reported by wireless that Ronica and Andre had joined some hilarious friends who came by in a new super-speed thing not much bigger or sturdier than a canoe. By patient elimination, therefore, they finally found her at 2 a. m.

in The Silver Slipper, dancing.

"It's from daddy," Ronica said, glancing at the telegram. "I suppose I ought to read it. Let's sit a while, Andre."

They had a table in a booth 700-odd feet above Broadway; and it was—come to discover it—really pleasant just to sit down a moment and be still. For even a play girl can know fatigue eventually. Ronica ignored Andre Girardeau while she read. All at once, then, Ronnie Bailey slumped.

"Well, it's come," she announced.

Andre lifted his eyebrows, expressive always.

"He's been writing about it for days. All hopped up. Said he was much better, and had actually bought the ranch, and that I could have a bigger time there than in the East, Andre—imagine that!"

"Droll!" said Andre, smiling. "Now he says I go neither to Vassar nor any other school back here, but I go this fall to—imagine this—to Pueblo U!"

Andre gave his quizzical look again.

"It's where Deemy Aikin went—did you know her, Andre? And Sue Travers and—oh a lot of kids. It's a little school in New Mexico, in a ranch village, but it's so full of easterners and Californians that they call it Dude College. Founded by some wealthy couple in 1930. Daddy says he's asking a professor, some Dr. York, to wire for my transfer credits at once. Seems I am to drink up scenery and dry air, and probably dry living as well."

"You—you'll go?" Andre pointed at her with his cigaret. Andre the dark-eyed and dark-mannered bachelor, called the season's Number One war refugee.

"Of course. I—you know daddy. He wears the Bailey pants. And, darn it, Andre, I just naturally love him!"

Because 11 a. m. to 2 a. m. is a long shift for continuous strenuous pleasure seeking, Ronnie asked now to be taken home. The taxi ride wasn't far, just a few blocks over, then up Park Avenue. She didn't say much en route; she just sat cuddled next to handsome Andre, her ebony hair touching his shoulder, and her violet eyes half closed. The haunting, taunting, delicate scent of her still lingered when Andre rode away from the Bailey mansion alone.

EVEN though it was late, Andre Girardeau did not retire when he reached his apartment. Instead, he went on a careful tour of inspection about the place.

He verified that the entry door was locked and that his specially-made little metal disc even covered the keyhole. He saw that no one was in the living room, the bedroom, the nook, and the three closets or the kitchen, and that the fire escape was clear and the window shades down. No servant stayed here after midnight unless by special orders, so he knew he was quite alone.

He went then to the medicine chest in his bathroom and momentarily surveyed the little array of bottles there. He took down one labeled "Blaine's Compound, for Muscular Ailments and Bruises; External Use Only." He carried the bottle to his desk, opened it and dipped a pen in it and began to write on an ordinary penny postcard.

The message required 10 minutes, but the liquid left only a watery line that promptly dried and disappeared. With his fountain pen and real ink, then, he wrote right over the same card:

"Dear Aunt Marie:
Have just sent the two books under separate cover. Hope Cissy likes them too. All well here. No news. Love to the fellows.
Affectionately yours,
Charles."

He addressed the stamped side to a woman in Washington, D. C., took the Blaine's Compound back to his bathroom, then went outside again to mail his card in person, pleased that it read sufficiently inane.

Last move, before dropping it in a slot, was to brush the card carefully with the moistened corner of his handkerchief, against the possibility—however remote—of telltale fingerprints.

Gewecke-Holt Bridal Is Read at Amboy Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen A. Holt of Amboy was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding Saturday afternoon, when the Holts' younger daughter, Edith Mildred, became the bride of Clarence Edward Gewecke, younger son of Mrs. Augusta Gewecke, also of Amboy. Only the immediate families of the bride and groom and a few close friends were present for the ceremony, performed at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Charles Schofield of the First Congregational church of Amboy.

As Mrs. Charles Schofield played the strains of the nuptial song, "I Love You Truly," the bride and groom entered the living room, unattended, and took their places before an improvised altar of chrysanthemums, bitter-sweet and ferns. Two white wedding bells were suspended from a silver rope overhead.

The bride's street-length frock of vineyard wine velvet was accented by a corsage of white chrysanthemums tied with blue ribbon. Her "something old" was a pair of gold bracelets set with rubies, worn by her grandmother, Mrs. Burton H. Lyon, as a bride, and her "something borrowed" was a lace handkerchief belonging to Miss Margaret de Marcus of Nashville, Tenn.

Mrs. Holt was wearing black crepe with a shoulder bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Gewecke, the bridegroom's mother, chose green crepe with a corsage of bronze mums.

An informal reception after the ceremony was followed by a bridal lunch served by Mrs. Holt, assisted by Mrs. Henry Gewecke. Mrs. H. Lyon presided at the coffee service.

The five-tiered cake, trimmed with yellow rosebuds and silver bells was baked by Mrs. Florence Harvey, and was cut by the bride with a silver cake knife that belonged to her great-grandmother, Mrs. Ellen S. Hodges. Tall white tapers glowed in silver holders at either side of the cake, which was the center decoration on the lace-covered refreshment table.

When Mr. Gewecke and his bride left later on a brief wedding trip, the new Mrs. Gewecke was wearing a black traveling costume, with black and gold accessories. They will reside in a newly-furnished apartment at the Holt home in Amboy.

Following her graduation from the Roswell N. M. high school, the bride spent several years in Phoenix, Ariz., where she was engaged in sanitation and welfare work. For the past year and a half, she has been with her parents in Amboy.

The bridegroom formerly attended the Amboy schools, and is now with the Arch Service station in Amboy.

Mrs. McColley Presents Review

An appreciative audience assembled in the Dixon high school music room Friday afternoon to hear a book review presented by Mrs. W. S. McColley, under sponsorship of the Dixon Woman's club. The speaker referred to her lecture as "An Antidote to War," in which she shared with her listeners the aids and alleviations she has found that counteract the thoughts of war.

Important among these chosen "antidotes" are the two books: Jan Struthers' "Mrs. Miniver," and Phyllis Bottoms' "Heart of a Child," which Mrs. McColley reviewed in the course of her talk.

The speaker found Mrs. Miniver one who transmutes small material things into something universal—the Mrs. Miniver who first appeared in London as a daily essay, but who soon became the "personal friend of everyone who read the London Times."

A number of humorous excerpts were read for the audience, before the more serious portions of the book—passages concerned with the war—were presented.

There must be results of this war, Mrs. Miniver says—the little kindnesses and the great as well, must be recorded in poems and letters and phrases so that the English people will not forget these when the war is over and return again to old negligences and unkindnesses.

Phyllis Bottoms' book, "The Heart of a Child," was described by Mrs. McColley as a simple story of a child named Karl, son of a Tyrolean tavern keeper. Karl is by way of being a philosopher, and when his father, an unloved wastrel, becomes dangerously ill and in need of meat which can only be provided by killing the beloved dog, Rolfe, the child goes into the quiet stalls to ask God how to save Rolfe.

Karl listens, but God does not answer, and since He does not, Karl decides to make his own decision alone. For "when God doesn't provide an answer, it's time to find an answer ourselves," he concludes. Accordingly, he takes the money from the church-box in order to pay his way and Rolfe's to the "city far enough away so that the dog cannot find his way home." Rolfe is sold and Karl returns; puts the money back in the church-box "and one kronen more" and when the priest questions him replies, "If it came into my head to save Rolfe—God put it in."

"These are simple little books," Mrs. McColley concluded, "but simple things are important things, especially in troubled times. If we can rearrange our values as Mrs. Miniver did or face our own personal problems as did Karl, we shall find much strength and comfort there."

MONDAY'S WASH

All the king's horses and all the king's men will never restore the Irish again. . . at least not to the list of 1940 undefeated teams. It was a grim week and for guest pickers and James E. Bales in a statement this morning said "Iowa had a better ball club." It takes awhile to recover from such shocks as the one James had Saturday when the Hawks swooped down into the South Bend arena and snatched away the honors right before his eyes. That was a major disaster for Bales, but he managed to pull through the predictions with a .737 percentage which is doggone good considering some of the other upsets of the week end. For instance, how could he imagine that Wisconsin would route Indiana, Duke bow to North Carolina to end a string of 14 conference victories. Navy and Columbia would tie, Marquette nose out Michigan State and Harvard defeat Brown. Next week Ed Worley will windup the season of guest pickers with his forecasts. Early snoopings reveal that Eddie is putting in a lot of time and energy on his work and really uncovering the details.

CAGE GAME TONIGHT

The Leat River-Forest basketball game which was postponed Friday night will be played tonight on the Forest court. This will be the second Route 72 conference game of the season.

ANOTHER SAD ALUMNUS

You've seen fishermen hold up their hands to show how long their catch was. Well—Fritz Hofmann, loyal Northwestern alumnus, was doing that after the Wildcats bowed to Michigan. Only Fritz was showing just how far the "cats" missed winning the game. "Just inches to the goal," he declared sadly, "and then the gun went off."

SOMEBODY HAS TO BE HAPPY

We'd like to think it was our presence which the Badgers needed to win Saturday, but of course there were thousands of others and it was Dad's Day, too. So we can't take much credit, but we can share in the mythical snake dance celebration. (Somebody has to be happy this sad Monday morning with all the Bales, Jones and Hofmann boys running around with their hearts in a sling.)

FROM WHERE WE SAT

Looking at it from any position it was a glorious day at Madison. The Hoosiers took the wind out of the sails with that place kick for three points in the opening minutes and we feared it was just another massacre. But you remember that touchdown in the first quarter—and those three in the second for the Badgers? George Paskvan takes our cut-glass award and the boy played a whooping fine game both offensively and defensively. That Badger line is something—and Minnesota may have a field day, (we make no heartening predictions), but they're in for something we didn't imagine was there.

THROUGH THE GLASSES

T. J. Miller, who acted as sponsor for Don Miller for the Dad's Day event, wore a big smile as we watched him through the binoculars between halves. All the dads of the grid team and all the sponsors of the boys were marched out on the field and introduced to the Wisconsin stands. Some of them looked like they'd make up a pretty hefty squad themselves.

FRESHMEN ON PARADE

We saw Leland (Butch) Shoaf at Madison Saturday and learned that he played for one quarter in the 6-6 tie game which the freshmen played in the morning as a windup of their season. Considering the fact that everyone got to play in the game and that there are many, many candidates on the fresh team, we think Butch was given quite a chance to show his ability.

AND NOW, MINNESOTA

Wisconsin papers on Sunday morning were giving the Hoosiers all the odds and placing the Badgers as the underdogs. There is no doubt that they will be the under-puppies in the game Saturday with the Western Conference champion, Minnesota. But there's a hope which wasn't there before. The Gophers' can not lose the title, all they can lose is the position on the list of the nation's undefeated teams. But the Badgers could gain a great deal if they should route the mighty men from the North. It may be too much to ask, but we hope it can be done.

AND INDIANA

The home state's team didn't fulfill expectations against the Badgers and were rushed all afternoon and thrown for terrific losses. But Hal Hursh is undoubtedly the sparkplug of the "poor little boys." He was smothered in his first half attempts to heave the oval, but got off some beauties in the last half. . . one of which, to Harris, counted for the Hoosiers' only touchdown. Watching the Indiana huddle through the field glasses, it looked as if Hal just about gave all the orders. . . the others seemed to look to him in their despair.

WHAT OF MILLER?

There was talk around the campus that Don Miller is nursing an injured hip. That may have been one reason why the Dixon lad was not sent into the game until about mid-way through the final quarter. In the few minutes he played, he was outstanding on at least one occasion. He smothered an Indiana safety man for a disheartening set back on an attempted punt return. Miller just seemed to come from out of nowhere.

CHANGING THE SUBJECT

To J. D. Wood goes today's award for the best hunting story. Driving to Belvidere the other day a cock pheasant crashed into the radiator of his car. Well—it is open season, a cock pheasant and J. D. has a hunting license. Some of the I. N. U. workmen around Belvidere have spent a couple of days roaming the wilds for game, and the Dixon man arrives at their office with a bird in the radiator. . . and a broken grill.

MORE HUNTING

Lois Stimeling and Earl Slagle, Jr., won't tell exactly how a black cat jinxed their hunting trip yesterday. But anyway they came home with only one rabbit and four pigeons.

Too that whistle! Ring that bell! Dartmouth almost stopped Cornell! Princeton barely beat the Yales by letting Peters tote the mails. And did John Harvard go to town in winning 14-0 from Brown? . . . GRID CROWNS TO BE DECIDED WITH WEEK'S CONTESTS

List of Undefeated and Untied Teams Reduced Last Week End

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.
New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Thanksgiving day—even when all hands agree upon the date—no longer marks the end of the football season, but it's close enough so that most of the major conference and sectional championships will be decided by this week and the list of contenders for the mythical national crown may be reduced even further.

As things stand now, the list of undefeated and untied college teams includes Boston College, Cornell, Lafayette, Tennessee, Minnesota, Texas Aggies, Hardin-Simmons, and Stanford. There are two others, definitely in the small college class, and Lafayette and Hardin-Simmons hardly could qualify as national title contenders.

Cornell's position also is questionable as a result of claims that the Ithacans beat Dartmouth, 7-3, on a touchdown scored on an illegal fifth down. Cornell officials already have offered to call it a 3-0 Dartmouth triumph if the men who handled the game rule, after investigation, that the down was illegal.

The tied but unbeaten group embraces Mississippi State, Texas Tech, Penn State and Colorado College, winner of the Rocky Mountain conference championship.

Stanford At Least Ties

Minnesota's 33-6 victory over Purdue last Saturday clinched the Western Conference crown for the Gophers; Stanford, 28-14 victor over Oregon State, can't get worse than a tie for the Pacific Coast conference title and Texas A. & M. in the Southwest and Utah in the Big Seven are in the same position. Clemson in the Southern Conference and Tennessee in the south-eastern can clinch their championships this week.

Looking over the title prospects by sections, you see something like this:

East—With Cornell's position still in dispute, Boston College stepped to the forefront with a 19-18 victory over Georgetown. Boston College plays Auburn this week and although the Southerners were beaten, 21-13, by Louisiana State, they should be able to supply another real test of the Eagle's strength.

Comeback Chance

Cornell, slightly discredited by its showing against the weak Dartmouth outfit, gets its comeback chance Saturday against Pennsylvania. Penn, once beaten and once tied, re-affirmed its power by trouncing Army, 48-0.

Lafayette tuned up for its climax game with Lehigh by beating Western Maryland, 40-7.

Fordham opens this week's action Thursday against Arkansas, 28-0 victim of Southern Methodist. Saturday's card is strongly inclined toward traditional rivalries. Harvard, 14-0 winner over Brown, meets Yale, which lost, 10-7, to Princeton. Princeton winds up against Army; Brown plays Dartmouth; Columbia, which battled Navy to an 0-0 tie, meets Colgate, 7-0 winner over Syracuse. Penn State, victor over New York U. by 25-0, tackles Pittsburgh, which held mighty Nebraska to a 9-7 decision, and Georgetown faces its neighbor, George Washington, which beat Kansas, 6-0.

Mid-West

Nebraska, which still has to win two Big Six games to take the conference title outright, goes after one against Iowa State, 12-0 winner over Kansas State. Oklahoma, the only team with a chance to tie the Cornhuskers after a 7-0 triumph over the Missouri Tigers, plays Temple, Missouri and Kansas meet in their traditional Thanksgiving battle. Oklahoma Aggies and Tulsa, both unbeaten in the Missouri valley conference, fight it out Saturday.

Other Interesting Games

Other interesting games send St. Louis university against unbeaten Texas Tech Thursday. DePaul, 13-7 victim of Gonzaga on a western trip, against Marquette, 7-6 winner over Michigan State, and Michigan State against West Virginia, which surprisingly beat Kentucky 9-7.

South—Mississippi and Mississippi State will do as much to settle the southeastern conference fuss as will Tennessee's clash with Kentucky. The Vols looked by far the best in the circuit in their 41-14 victory over Virginia, but they still have two conference games to win. Both ole Miss and Mississippi State are unbeaten in the conference, but the latter has been tied and thus can't overtake Tennessee unless the Vols lose.

Clemson, despite its 12-12 tie with little Southwestern of Memphis, can win the Southern Conference title outright by disposing of Furman, 25-7 winner over South Carolina the last time out. Duke's 14-game string of conference victories was snapped by North Carolina, 6-3, and that left the Blue Devils in a second-place tie with Richmond. Duke plays North Carolina State Saturday and Richmond faces William and Mary Thursday.

Texas Aggies To Rest

Southwest—The Texas Aggies, after impressing practically everyone with their invincibility by overwhelming Rice 25-0, take a week

Dixon Keglers Win Six of Seven Matches With Out-of-Town Rivals

A dive bomber couldn't have scattered the pins with more fury than the local and visiting kegglers in eight match games at the Dixon Recreation this past week end. In seven matches with out-of-town quintets the Dixon pinmen emerged victorious in six, clearly showing the brand of kegglers which the local alleys produce.

On Saturday the Dixon Recreation team routed the Pabst team of Belvidere, 2916 to 2487 with John Smith of the winners hitting high series with 645 in games of 232-212-201. Al Wolfe of the same aggregation counted 615 with games of 146-214-255. The Dixon All-Stars thumped the Standard Oil team of Belvidere on Saturday night with scores of 2606 to 2426. Becker led the winners with a series of 188-216-200 for 604.

Defeat Morrison Team
In a match yesterday the All-Stars defeated the Morrison Recreation No. 2, 2542 to 2313. High series for the match was counted by Senneff of the winners with 171-223-192 for 586. Emmert was among the high game counters with 211 and Bishop rolled 212.

Dixon Recreation five defeated Morrison Recreation No. 1, 2684 to 2551. Ed Worley was high pinman of the match with his 198-182-196 for 576 to pace the winners. Smith counted a game of 201 and Klein rolled 206 for the winners.

In the only match which local pinmen lost, the Wahl's Market of Sterling defeated the All-Stars, 2541 to 2519. Clark rolled high series of the match with 186-219-174 for the winners and the locals were paced by Senneff with 553.

The Dixon Recreation team routed the Princeton Recreation, 2684 to 2493, as Worley counted 563 for high series and leader of the winners.

Williams DeSoto of Dixon rolled to a 2606 to 2558 victory over Maria's Cafe of Rockford. Al Wolfe's series of 570 was high for the match. He counted 204 in his second game and Ed Worley of Dixon rolled 222 in his first game.

In an intra-city match yesterday, the Three Deuces bowed to the Jay's Tavern team, 2703 to 2677. The tavern five was paced by Slain with a 445 series and Cy Winebrenner led the losers with 510. Handicaps were used and gave the winners a 77-pin advantage.

off while Rice plays Texas Christian, beaten 21-14 by Texas, and Southern Methodist meets Baylor. Mathematically, either Rice or S. M. U. might still tie the Aggies, but they've both been beaten already.

Big Seven—Utah, its conference chores completed with a 27-0 triumph over Colorado State, plays Idaho Saturday after Denver and Colorado meet Thursday to see which will tie the Utes for the title. In preparation, Denver beat Utah State 34-6 and Colorado whipped Brigham Young 25-2.

Pacific Coast—On the records, Stanford hasn't a rival left for the conference crown, but there's still the formality of finishing the season and casting the Rose Bowl ballot. California, Stanford's next opponent, beat Oregon 14-6 Saturday. This week's only game pits U. C. L. A. 34-26 winner over Washington State, against Washington, 14-6 victor over Southern California.

Jimmy Wilson Is Offered Job as Manager of Cubs

By TOM SILER

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Jimmy Wilson, Cincinnati player-coach and hero of the 1940 World Series, will be the new manager of the Chicago Cubs if he wants the job.

He has been chosen to pull the team out of the second division and put 't back in its usual rank as a National League pennant contender, but the deal has not been completed.

Wilson was here today for a conference with Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, on terms of a managerial contract. It was expected that he would agree to take the post vacated by Gabby Hartnett at a salary in the neighborhood of $25,000.

James T. Gallagher, newly-appointed general manager of the Cubs, said last night, the job was Wilson's for the taking and that no difficulty was anticipated in coming to terms with the 40-year-old veteran of 18 years in the majors.

Hartnett was fired last Wednesday as the first step in a general reorganization of the Cubs, ending the big catchers 19-year regime with the Cubs.

Second Time As Boss

If Wilson accepts the post—and there is small chance he will refuse—it will be his second role as a big league pilot. He managed the Philadelphia Phillies for five years, but never could get the club above seventh place.

Wilson, a native of Philadelphia, became a professional baseball player in 1920 and after three years with New Haven in the eastern league was bought by the Phillies. The St. Louis Cardinals took him in a trade in 1928, and kept him until 1934 when he returned to the Phillies as manager. Thompson Prothro succeeded him at that post as coach under manager Bill McKechnie.

He electrified the baseball world in the last World Series when he forsook coaching in an emergency and returned to catching, sparking the Reds to the worlds championship.

The new manager will be the fourth the Cubs have hired since Joe McCarthy was fired during the 1930 season, Rogers Hornsby, Charles Grimm and Hartnett following in order.

PRAYER OF A FATHER
Dear God, my little boy of three Has said his nightly prayers to Thee; Before his eyes were closed to sleep

He asked that Thou his soul would keep, And I, still kneeling by his bed, My hand upon his tousled head, Do ask, with deep humility,

That Thou, dear Lord, remember me, Make me, kind Lord, a worthy Dad,

That I may lead this little lad In pathways ever far and bright That I may keep his steps aright, O God, his trust must never be Destroyed or even marred by me; So, for the simple things he prayed,

With childish voice so unafraid, I, trembling, ask the same from Thee; Dear Lord, kind Lord, remember me.

Reynolds' Team Is Tied for Second in Thursday Loop

The Reynolds Wire bowlers jumped into a tie for second place in the Commercial league yesterday as they won three games from Coss Dairy in a postponed match.

The wiremen have now won 19 and lost 14 to stand in a tie with Cahill's Electric just two games out of first place which is held by Sparky's Fenders.

Cy Winebrenner led the winners with a 576 series and Klein's 525 was high for the losers. Bishop's 199 in his third game was the nearest approach to a 200 count.

WISCONSIN MAY GIVE CHAMPIONS SURPRISE BATTLE

Badgers Rout Indiana; Michigan Has Chance As Runner-Up

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—This is consolation week in the Western Conference.

Minnesota's all-winning juggernaut already has clinched the championship and the outcome of four league games Saturday can have no effect on the Gophers' title.

The Gophers, only undefeated and untied major eleven in the midwest, need only a victory over Wisconsin Saturday at Madison to share the mythical national championship. They looked more impressive than ever in walloping Purdue, 33 to 6, for their seventh straight triumph.

The Badgers might possibly give the Gophers a real battle, judging from the manner in which Fullback George Paskvan and his mates manhandled Indiana, 27 to 10. This was Wisconsin's third conference victory after losing two early in the season.

Michigan, 20 to 13 victor over Northwestern, has a chance to move into the runner-up spot in the race against Ohio State at Columbus Saturday. The Buckeyes were none too impressive in trimming Illinois, 14 to 6, but hope to give Harmon & Company a stubborn test.

Iowa Meets Illinois
Iowa, which entertains Illinois Saturday while Indiana and Purdue meet at Lafayette, bounced Notre Dame down into the defeated ranks, 7-0, in one of the biggest upsets of a wild day. The Hawkeyes showed no semblance of an attack until a succession of breaks gave them a scoring opportunity in the final period. The Hawks now have played the Irish three games, winning all of them, each time whipping an hitherto unbeaten team.

Notre Dame hopes to rebound strongly Saturday against Northwestern at Evanston in a game that is always a cruiser. The ticket supply of 48,500 for this attraction was exhausted a month ago.

Minnesota's champions now have won the title four times and tied for it once in the past seven years. Over this span from 1934 they have lost only five conference games and tied one. Last year was their worst in recent seasons, the 1939 team losing three league games and tying one.

FIRST DRAFTEES WELCOMED TODAY AT FT. SHERIDAN

Seasoned Soldiers Have Salutes for Rookies Reporting There

Fort Sheridan, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Seasoned soldier of the regular army and raw recruit marked for training under a new kind of selective service in the United States exchanged courtesies on the parade ground of this historic fort today, inaugurating in Illinois the first actual military phases of peacetime conscription.

The first of the state's selectees—most of them among the earliest volunteers—intoned the oath of allegiance in front of post headquarters. The veterans stationed at the fort then presented arms to these eager young greenhorns.

Nothing quite like it ever was witnessed at an American military reservation. The spectacle had no counterpart in the story of America's part in the first World war. Then the draftee generally was a person apart; he served in a national army division made up of conscripted men, or he was a replacement in a division of volunteers, and as a rule never was accepted on quite the same terms as the man who had enlisted.

Camaraderie Sought

The display today at Fort Sheridan—no mere formality—seemed to presage the sort of camaraderie desired by high-ranking officers in 1917 and 1918 and considered essential in the emergency which prompted the government to call up civilians between the ages of 21 and 36 for a year's training in the army.

Many a conscript dragged himself into a canteen in 1918 to the jeers of more experienced hands at the game, and found little to cheer him in his first weeks of military service. In contrast to that dejection of more than 22 years ago, the selectees of 1940 were met at the North Shore railroad station by the 14th Cavalry's 65-piece band and an escort of honor embracing members of the first coast artillery, anti-aircraft outfit, and details of the Second Infantry.

The newcomers were saluted with all the enthusiasm permitted by military decorum. The band played stirring tunes, and the color guard, in impeccable parade dress, came to attention with impressive West Point precision, the regimental flags and the national colors waving and snapping pleasantly above it.

Welcomed By General

Into a speech the prepared text of which required no longer than five minutes to deliver, Brig. Gen. Clyde R. Abraham infused the spirit of today's selective service.

"As the commanding officer of Fort Sheridan," he said, "I welcome you into our ranks. You men who stand here before us are pioneers in a new movement. You are the vanguard of a new national defense program, a course of action forced upon us by conditions existing in the world at large. The nation has called upon you to prepare yourselves so that your country might be ready to assume the responsibility of protecting the privilege we have fought so long to maintain.

"This is a serious task and one that you can well be proud to take. The role of a soldier is one of the oldest and most honorable professions.

"Here on this very ground the fathers and relatives of many of you served your country a short generation ago.

Discipline Necessary

"The transition you are about to make to this new way of living is sudden but exhilarating. The biggest change will be acclimating yourselves to military discipline. You will quickly learn that discipline is a necessity; a code of conduct for military men.

"We shall try to make you feel at home as quickly as possible and shall help you in a truly friendly spirit.

"We of the army will do our part. We know that you will do yours; and again, let me assure you a cordial welcome to the army and to Fort Sheridan."

Their introduction to life at a regular army post having been attended by every mark of respect and good-will, plus the flourish called for an unprecedented occasion, the selectees proceeded to the recruit reception center, where they completed the transition from civilian life to that of a soldier.

The men reported to Lieut. Col. Willis J. Tack, infantry officer in charge of the reception center.

They were registered, classified, individually interviewed concerning their occupations, aptitudes, hobbies, special talents and educational background, issued uniforms and other equipment, and inoculated against typhoid and para-typhoid and vaccinated against small pox.

Await Travel Orders

Beyond that, the selectee awaits travel orders to his permanent training assignment, meantime being well-fed, entertained, supplied with reading matter and given opportunity to take part in athletic programs, church activities and group games.

The first 100 men called up in Illinois reported in the 122nd field artillery amory on the near north side in Chicago at 7:30 this morning for their physical examinations and transportation certificates to Fort Sheridan.

Each man was examined by 16 army representatives at 12 stations arranged not unlike an assembly line.

Throughout Cook county the first induction day was attended by considerable fanfare, bands turned out, parades were organized, and men were showered with gifts. Some local boards conducted ceremonies last night, others held off until this morning.

LED BY NEW ENGLAND

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Led by New England, home of the "Minute Men" in a bygone defense era, the nation began mustering into service today the first conscription program contingent of 19,700.

New England could thank the clock for the distinction of being first. Actual induction of trainees for a year's training also started at Chicago and on the Pacific coast, but difference in time zones gave New England the chance to start earliest.

As the first young men were getting ready to start toward camp, war department spokesmen disclosed that instead of the original estimate of 30,000, only 19,700 trainees would be put into uniform by December 1.

The reduction, officials explained, was due chiefly to the large number of recruits signing up recently for three-year "hitches" in the regular army.

Only three Army Corps areas figured in the start of inductions today. The 1st Corp area—embracing the six New England states—had a quota of 984, and predicted a good many of the youths would be completely outfitted and in camps by nightfall. At Chicago, headquarters of the 6th Corp area, an even 100 were to be sworn in. Induction stations in the far west were ready for the first of the 1,630 men from the states of the 9th Corp area. It will be several days before the task in these areas is finished.

After this limited start, the selective service machinery will pick up speed in the next week with the rapid extension of induction work to other areas. Its job is to have 800,000 men receiving military training by June 30.

The transition you are about to make to this new way of living is sudden but exhilarating. The biggest change will be acclimating yourselves to military discipline. You will quickly learn that discipline is a necessity; a code of conduct for military men.

"Rubber Ball" of Oil Industry Is Fatally Stricken

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 18.—(AP)—"Game Josh" Cosden, 59, the rubber ball of the oil industry, who bounded and fell in spectacular accumulation and loss of millions of dollars, died suddenly yesterday on a train enroute from Palm Springs, Calif.

His secretary, William Hudson, said the Fort Worth oil man suffered a heart attack. Death occurred at Wilcox, Ariz.

Oil holdings which had sent him skyrocketing to great wealth were reduced at his death principally to a refinery at Wynnewood, Okla., owned under the name of the Cosco Oil Co. and the Cosco Pipe Line Co. Cosden was president of both. Cosden always held the confidence of his business associates and friends.

"J. S. may be down now, but he'll come back; watch him," they said.

And Joshua Senev Cosden did come back, more than once.

Once a poorly paid drug clerk in Baltimore, Md., Cosden answered the call of adventure and overnight wealth in the flush oil fields of Oklahoma. He piled million upon million, climbed the social ladder until he reached the portals of New York's most exclusive circles. He crashed through them so forcefully that when the Prince of Wales visited the United States in 1924 he was a week-end guest of the Cosdens.

It was on that occasion that a thief entered the house and stole $150,000 worth of Mrs. Cosden's jewels, and made off with gems belonging to Lady Mountbatten, another guest, valued variously at from $2,000 to $20,000.

Pendulum Swings

This was the peak of both the social and financial whirl of the Cosdens. The pendulum began swinging back. The great Cosden & Co., through which "Game Josh" had built a personal fortune valued at $50,000,000 declined and in 1926 passed out of his hands, to become the impersonal Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation.

Villas on Long Island and at Palm Beach and Newport were sold, the Cosden private railroad car disposed of, and the family retired from the public eye while "Game Josh" took stock of himself.

Two years later, in 1928, with $3,000,000 that his eastern friends trusted to him, Cosden went back to the oil fields for his second climb up the financial ladder. Establishing headquarters at Fort Worth, Tex., he invested in oil lands, and developed them and the Cosden Oil Co., which he had formed, until they were credited with a paper value of $15,000,000. At least half this value had been acquired by Cosden.

Then in March, 1930, Cosden was taken ill in his more modest new home in Florida, and for weeks lay in a critical condition. His company potentially still was strong. Its assets exceeded its liabilities, but cash for current debts was not at hand, and a receiver was appointed.

Again to the darkness of obscurity the Cosdens retreated, but they didn't stay there long. Late in 1931 there came new rumors of the presence of "Game Josh" in the oil fields. Again he made Fort Worth, the scene of his second venture, the locale for his third attempt to make a fortune. And again his friends said, "He may be down, but he'll bounce back."

Cosden was born July 8, 1881, in Kent county, Maryland.

Chicago Advertising Agency Holdup Scene

Chicago.—(AP)—Harry Siegel, advertising executive, told police that three masked men armed with revolvers entered his downtown office and robbed him of $1,000 in currency. Siegel, who heads the Midwest Feature Service, said the men forced him to open three safes from which the loot was obtained.

NYA EXPERIENCE CENTERS

Chicago.—(AP)—Five thousand young men and girls of Illinois will be added to the state National Youth Administration program by December 1, increasing the total to 22,000. Mary Stuart Anderson, state NYA administrator, said the increase was necessitated by plans to open 11 additional work-experience centers in connection with the national defense program. She said there would be 33 centers.

MANUFACTURER SUICIDES

Belvidere, Ill.—(AP)—A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner's jury in the case of Richard M. Patrick, 36, of Marengo, president of the Metal-Glas Manufacturing Company here, who was found dead in his office Saturday with a bullet through his head. Police Chief August Stegeman said that a .38-caliber pistol was found near Patrick's body. The suicide verdict was returned after testimony that Patrick had suffered financial troubles.

Two South Elgin Boy Skaters are Drowned

Elgin, Ill.—(AP)—Edward Nichols, 13, and William Walz, 12, of South Elgin, drowned Saturday in the Fox river when they broke through thin ice about 15 feet from shore. Lyle Campbell, 11, who was skating with the two boys, narrowly escaped drowning when he attempted to rescue them. Lying flat on the ice, young Campbell stretched out his leg to help Walz but was pulled in himself. He managed, however, to cling to the ice and was rescued by Mrs. Peter Johnson and her son, Stanley. The bodies of the other two boys were recovered by firemen.

Annihilation of England Aim of Italy, Says Duce

(By The Associated Press)
Rome, Nov. 18.—Premier Mussolini declared today the European war must go on until England is annihilated, told his fascist chiefs the Italians must be prepared for "more severe" sacrifices and said he would "never turn back" in the Greek campaign.

"We have a million men under arms," he declared on the fifth anniversary of economic sanctions against Italy which grew out of the Ethiopian campaign, "and we could call eight million more."

Il Duce, in his first speech since Italy's declaration of war June 10, denied British claims that half of Italy's battleships were put out of action for a long time in an air-raid on the naval base at Taranto last week. He said only one warship was damaged so badly that she could not be repaired within a relatively short time.

Speaking at his Palazzo Venezia, he listed Italy's losses in the Greek campaign as 372 dead, 1,081 wounded, and 650 missing, in the first 10 days of Greek war, and shouted:

"They will be avenged, for whatever happens, I will never turn back."

Mussolini declared Italy was turning out four times more airplanes than before the war and said:

"In a short time, with mass production, our new types will be perhaps ahead and certainly equal to the most modern planes of other countries."

In the British raid on Taranto, Mussolini acknowledged that three Italian ships were hit, but said "none was sunk and only one of them—as the bulletin of our armed forces announced—was seriously damaged and its repair will require a long time."

"Sign of Bad Conscience"

"It is false, I say, that two other warships and two auxiliary vessels were sunk or hit or damaged even slightly in any way," Mussolini asserted. It is a sign of bad conscience, this enlargement and multiplication by six of the success which we acknowledged."

Citing Italy's axis alliance, Mussolini declared that "from day to day our collaboration with Germany is really comradesly and totalitarian. We are marching side by side x x x our identity of views, both for the present and for the future, is perfect."

"My meetings with the Führer are only a consecration of this complete fusion of our conceptions."

The three-power pact among Germany, Italy and Japan, developments in the Danubian basin, as well as "the future position of France," resulted from those meetings, Il Duce said.

Turning to the war against Greece, Il Duce said the Greeks "hate Italy as no other people," although "the reason is a mystery."

Greek foreign policy in recent years was based on this hatred, he charged, describing it as a policy of "absolute complicity with Great Britain."

"Greek Rule English"
"It could not be otherwise," he shouted, "considering the king is English, the political class is English and the bourse, in both a figurative and real sense, is English."

Papers found by the German general staff in France, he declared, showed Greece had offered the allies all its air and naval bases since last May.

"The rough mountains of Epirus and its muddy valleys do not lend themselves to lightning war," he explained. x x x "I do not believe it worth the trouble to deny all the news given by Greek propaganda and its English loudspeaker."

"That Julia Alpine division which was supposed to have suffered enormous losses, fled and been pulverized by the Greeks, was seen by General Soddou, who after his visit telegraphed me Nov. 12."

"I went this morning to visit the Julia Alpine division and must report a magnificent impression was brought back from this superb unit, stronger than ever in its Alpine rocks."

"With absolute certainty I tell you we will break Greece's back. Whether in two months or 12 months, it little matters."

"The war has barely begun. We have men and means to annihilate all Greek resistance. English aid can not prevent accomplishment of this most firm proposal."

"To think or suspect something otherwise, means not to know me."

"We must have a million men under arms. But we can call 8,000,000 men if necessary. x x x Germans and Italians together, we are a bloc of 150,000,000, resolute, compact and firm from Norway to Libya."

"This bloc already has victory in its fist."

Preparation for the fight between the totalitarian powers and the "old world" began at the time

Smith's Alleged "Black Book" Not in Hands of FBI

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—U. S. District Attorney Howard L. Doyle said today a Federal grand jury which has been investigating charges that some mid-western utility companies maintained political slush funds probably would submit its reports in district court next week.

At the same time Doyle and other government attorneys declined comment on an unofficial report that the grand jury had examined private political records of the late F. Lyndon Smith, former Democratic state campaign manager.

Doyle said the grand jury, which began its inquiry August 26, would be in recess all this week but would reconvene Monday, Nov. 25. He added he believed the jurors had "about completed" their examination of witnesses and evidence.

While the reports concerning Smith's records revived a controversy over whether the former political leader left a "little black book" of campaign fund information, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said in a statement it was not in possession of such a document.

Official Denial
The statement came from J. E. Thornton, agent in charge of the Springfield office of the FBI.

A futile request for a so-called "little black book" was made last May by a legislative committee headed by Rep. Clinton Searle (R-Rock Island), who said he had "reliable information" that such a personal record of campaign fund collections and disbursements was kept by Smith.

Government Makes Plans for States' Units of Defense

Indianapolis, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The war department now is making plans for state civil-defense units whose main job in a national emergency would be to watch over vital industrial and transportation facilities, an official said today.

Robert P. Patterson, assistant secretary of war, outlined these plans in a speech prepared for delivery to commanders and adjutants of the American Legion's 38 departments beginning their three-day annual meeting at national headquarters of the World War veterans' organization here.

He said the department was drawing up regulations for organization of "state guards" similar to the "home guards" which in the World War reached a total strength of 79,000 in 27 states.

"The state guard will be alert to the fact," Patterson said, "that the wars of today know no front line—that a tiny village hundreds of miles behind the theoretical front may suddenly become the scene of desperate and playing action."

He explained that states planning such establishments must prepare "a comprehensive program of organization and training for guard duty, handling disorderly crowds and overcoming

Illinois Land Owners Order Seven Million Trees to Plant in '41

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—State Forester Anton P. Tomasek said today that land owners in Illinois have ordered nearly seven million trees for spring reforestation planting from the state nurseries.

Tomasek said the demand for planting stock has risen each year since the program was started with 300,000 trees in 1936. Last spring, 6,147,000 young trees and many towns and small communities have turned vacant public property areas into timbers.

During the year 1,600,000 trees purchased from the state were placed on strip mine lands, Tomasek reported. He predicted a larger number would be planted on mine property next year.

Italian Downed by R. A. F. in England

In their first all-Italian foray against England, 11 Duce's air force met disaster at the eager hands of R. A. F. defenders. A formation

Estuary. British report that in 15-minute battle, seven Italian bombers and six fighters were downed. Above, a British officer

BEAU BRUMMELLS OF YAPI

HERE'S a much dressed up Big Chief—trying to look very fierce as he poses with his aid. They are Indians of the Chaco tribe from the village of Yapi in the Darien jungles of Panama. Few people taking the trip through the Canal Zone long enough to see the really astounding sights which the interior provinces on the isthmus have to offer. On this narrow strip of land are jungles which a few hardy adventurers have explored, and there are native tribes as primitive as those in the heart of Africa.

Yapi, on the Tuira River, the town of the above gentlemen, a cluster of round huts built on stilts about fourteen feet above ground and roofed with palm fronds. The women's costume consists of a long, colored cloth wrapped around the waist—and silver earrings. The men wear loin cloths and very fancy bow bands and armlets, and, usually, heavy silver earrings. They live very comfortably by hunting, fishing and raising lowland rice or a patch of plantains, or bananas. Once a week they load up huge dugout canoes called piraguas with these products and paddle down to El Real de Santa Maria, the capital of Darien Province—a town of the old wild west which is the marketing center not only for the Indians but for the bush negroes in nearby settlements. The best way to visit these villages is under the guidance of Jungle Jim Price, a handsome native son of Georgia who has lived in the jungles of Panama and Central America for a quarter of a century. He knows how to travel comfortably in this region and is a general favorite with the natives.

Washington Pro Gridders Whip Chicago Bears

Chicago, Nov. 18—(AP)—The Chicago Bears have a little unfinished business with the Washington Redskins and hope to settle it next month.

The once-defeated Redskins whipped the Bears Sunday, 7 to 3, the game ending with the Chicago team driving to Washington's one-foot line. The outcome left the victors a virtual cinch to win the Eastern division championship, needing only one more triumph in two remaining games for the clincher.

The Bears, having won six of nine engagements, still lead Green Bay, which lost to New York, 7 to 3, by a full game. Each team has two games to go, with the Chicagoans heavily favored to take the western sectional title and thereby qualify to meet the easterners for the championship in December.

Chicago took a 3-0 lead over Washington in the opening period on Jack Manders 38-yard field goal, but the Redskins went ahead in the second quarter when Frank Filchock passed twice to Rob Masterson, then heaved one to dock Todd for the tally. Bo Russell placekicked the point and that ended the scoring although the Bears played tag with the Washington goal throughout the second half.

Fumbled Kickoff

At New York, Larry Buhler fumbled the opening kickoff and Leland Shaffer recovered for the Giants on Green Bay's six. Len Barnum passed to Shaffer for the touchdown on the third play and then placekicked the conversion. Clark Hinkle contributed the Packers three points on a 31-yard field goal with five minutes remaining in the game. Otherwise the once-beaten Packer offense was inept, especially when in the Giants' territory.

Brooklyn lambasted the Cleveland Rams, 29 to 14, for its sixth win in the nine games.

Detroit humbled the last place Philadelphia eleven, 21 to 0 in the other National League tussle.

Statewide Survey of Airports Will be Made by I. A. C.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18—(AP)—The Illinois Aeronautics Commission announced today it would undertake a statewide survey of airport facilities and would offer engineering services to cities planning to build airports or expand those they now have.

George C. Roberts, commission secretary, said a consulting engineer had been retained to assist cities in drawing up plans for airport improvements. The engineer, W. A. Schaefer, formerly of the state division of highways, will be assisted by a staff furnished by the WPA.

One purpose of the survey, Roberts said, is to have specific data on Illinois airport needs available when and if congress appropriates funds for expansion of civilian fields which might be valuable for military use.

Service To Be Free

The engineering services of the state commission will be furnished to cities without cost, Roberts said. Communities must, however, procure options on sites intended for airport development before an engineering survey will be made by the state agency.

The commission's plan was endorsed by Major A. B. McMullen, chief of the airport section of the Federal Civil Aeronautics Administration. McMullen and other CAA officials came here Saturday on a tour of inspection of McMullen said such detailed plans must be in readiness if cities expect to share in prospective future federal aid in airport development. Roberts said the Illinois commission's engineers, in designing new air fields, would work in conjunction with the CAA in order that specifications would meet the federal agency's requirements.
